What is WASEA?

WASEA is one of four regional associations affiliated with the National Student Employment Association (NSEA). Founded in 1978 by a group of student employment professionals, WASEA has since been an effective forum for addressing the critical issues and challenges facing administrators in higher education.

Why WASEA?

Student employment administrators face many challenges in today's work-place: funding fluctuations, downsizing, legal issues, reauthorization, Federal Work-Study regulations, changes in technology, etc. Meeting those challenges requires creativity, innovation, and the ability to look beyond the way it has always been done. The members of WASEA successfully master these challenges everyday and are ready and willing to share their knowledge and expertise with you.

WASEA is one of the fastest growing organizations in student services and has a bright future because it is involved in the critical issues and challenges facing student employment administrators in higher education today.

WASEA Benefits

Newsletters

In early spring, mid-summer, and fall, members receive a newsletter which addresses current student employment issues and reports on issues and upcoming events at the state, regional, and national levels.

Annual Conference

Members meet annually in selected regional sites for the WASEA conference where experts share information such as student employment issues, labor market trends, legislative updates, marketing, and professional growth.

Professional Development

Training for student employment professionals is offered at various sites during the year through our Student Employment Essentials training modules. Topics include federal work-study, federal community service, JLD, interviewing and selection processes, career development and much more. WASEA members also have opportunities to become involved with regional and national committees and special projects.

Resource Material

An annual Membership Directory connects members with other WASEA members who share similar areas of expertise.

Providing a voice and community for those who make student employment possible

"I became involved just over a year ago and now wish I had found WASEA sooner. The members of this organization are always willing to share ideas and know how to organize a conference packed with quality information and loaded with fun. Because of WASEA I have become acquainted with other 'student employment people' and have a network I call upon to ask questions and discuss issues with. Thank you WASEA and all of 'its' members!"
Tammy Staley, Job Placement Specialist
Great Basin College, Elko, Nevada

"Getting involved with WASEA is one of the best professional moves I have made. Nowhere else can you find such a wonderful breadth of knowledge and ideas combined with the at-home flavor the organization offers. Through valuable WASEA conference sessions and training opportunities I have learned new and innovative practices to better serve our students and reduce liability to my institution - two very happy outcomes! I encourage anyone who wants to grow professionally, meet really nice people, and have a bit of fun along the way, to join WASEA."
